THE SALES CAUSED DROP

ST. PAUL AND SOUTHERN PACI-FIC LEADERS.

New York, July 27 .-- The stock market save a good demonstration of its absorptive power today in face of numerous sales to realize on the sales to realize the sales the sal sales to realize on the week's considernotable in view of its centering on St. Paul and Southern Pacific, which are effective leaders of market sentiment and likely to influence the whole market. likely to influence the whole market by sympathy. The profit-taking in Southern Pacific carried it at one time about two points below the high level of the week and St. Paul was as much as 3 points off. Effective disclaimers were made togay of the rumors of the passing of conpay of the rumors of the passing of con-brel of St. Paul into Union Pacific hands, which were circulated yesterday to off-set the disappointment over the non-action of the St. Paul directors on the late financial plan.

The effect of these disclaimers was largely confined to St. Paul itself, although the rumors were an influence in lifting the whole market before. The selling the whole market before. The selling to realize extended to other quarters of the list and effected the transcontinental railroads quite generally, as well as some of the eastern trunk lines. Some of the stocks which were subjected to this process recovered later in view of the steady absorption which met the offerings. Speculating entirents continued.

We wheat market was firm during the half of the session, sentiment in the being influenced by foreign crops, which was generally favorable to bulls. The price of wheat at the cipal European grain centers showed onsiderable advance owing to addial reports claiming a greater shortage wheat in southern Russia as a result excessive rains. The buying early in the day came from influential quarters, several prominent commission houses being on that side of the market. There was also a good demand by local shorts. Toward the noon hour the market weakened on selling by cash houses, increased acceptances from the country being given as a reason for the more liberal offerings. Little recuperative power was manifested late in the day, the market closing steady. September opened \( \frac{1}{2} \) to \( \frac{1}{2} \) to \( \frac{1}{2} \) and then declined to \( \frac{7}{6} \). Sentiment in the corn pit was bullish almost all day. The heavy movement of winter wheat to market, while tending to some ease in prices, has a favorable side when the export business is considered. Reports are that a large future business in its direction has already been booked. An interesting sidelight on the gloomy predictions current some time ago as to the meat trade is found in advices from Chicago that cattle and hog prices are at the highest point of the year. Railway traffic returns point to an unprecedentedly heavy volume of business offering.

Francis G. Luke, Gen. Man. Merchants' Protective Association, Salt

Dear Sir: The first of February of this year I became a member of your association by remitting $32 for year's dues. At the same time I sent you over 100 claims, every one of which was outlawed, and many of which dated back to 1882 and 1883. The aggregate of the bills exceeded $3.000. Within 60 days you had collected, or I had through you, over $500, and I have since collected a total of over $1,100, and I believe I stand a fair chance of collecting as much more within a short time.

The debtors had received statements annually or oftener; some of them I met frequently, almost weekly; one of them was in business for years, and is yet, within 300 feet of my office; yet I had been unable to collect. Disliking to bring a suit or suits at law, as a last resort I turned the bills over to you.

The result has been so gratifying that I propose to not allow the moss to grow upon the backs of any of my bills in future. Furthermore,

I am going through my books to dig up all the old timers that I can hope to bring to terms. I consider that $32 paid to you about the best investment I ever Sincerely yours,

IN DISTALL
